The Injustice of Life

Matthew 26-27

Injustice in life implies blame.

The just reward for sin is death.

My Application

Use the following questions this week to reflect on what it would mean to align yourself with the truths taught in Scripture. Each question is meant for both personal reflection and as a catalyst for discussion with your family, friends, or small group.

- 1) What injustice have you suffered in life? Who do you blame for allowing you to live in less than what you feel you deserve?
- 2) In reading Romans 6:23a “The wages of sin is death ...” what is your due reward? What do you deserve in life? How does this impact your view of “human rights”?
- 3) During Jesus’ crucifixion the injustice God allows towards Jesus is contrasted with two thieves receiving their just reward. What can we learn from their stories?
(Matthew 27:44 and Luke 23:39-41)
- 4) How has the injustice Jesus suffered changed your perspective on the unmerited and undeserved favor we can live under?

Memory Verse

And we indeed justly, for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this Man has done nothing wrong.

Luke 23:41 NKJV
